TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—Maine, originally a part of Massachusetts, was admitted to the Union as a separate state, the twenty-third, on March 15, 1820. According to the Fourteenth Census, taken as of January 1, 1920, its population is 768,014, which represents an increase of 25,643, or 3.5 per cent, over the 1910 figure. During the same period the population of the United States increased by 14.9 per cent. The following summary shows the population of Maine from 1790, the year to which the first Federal census related, to 1920, inclusive, together with the number and per cent of increase for each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole:

Counties.—Maine has 16 counties, of which 11 show increases and 5 decreases as compared with 1910. (See Table 1.) Changes in the boundaries of Hancock and Knox Counties were made between the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Census dates.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 29,895 square miles. The average number of inhabitants to the square mile in 1920 is 25.7 (see Table 1), as against 24.8 in 1910 and 23.2 in 1900.

Minor civil divisions.—The political units into which the counties are divided are collectively termed "minor civil divisions." The counties of Maine are made up of 907 primary divisions, comprising 20 cities, 434 towns, 359 townships, 69 plantations, 12 grants, 5 gores, 3 surpluses, 2 tracts, and 3 islands. Of these primary divisions, 182—176 townships, 2 surpluses, 2 grants, 1 gore, and 1 tract—have not been reported as having any inhabitants in the last three censuses. In addition, the minor civil divisions of Maine include 24 villages, or secondary divisions, which form parts of the towns in which they are located. (See Table 2.)

POPULATION—MAINE.

Cities.—Maine has 20 cities, of which Portland, with a population of 69,272, is the largest. Two other cities, Bangor and Lewiston, have over 25,000 inhabitants each, and in 5 cities the population is between 10,000 and 25,000. (See Tables 3 and 4.)

The following summary shows, for each city having 10,000 or more inhabitants in 1920, the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the number and per cent of increase during the preceding decade:

Urban and rural population.—The Census Bureau defines urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside such incorporated places.

The following summary presents, for the last three censuses, figures showing the urban and rural population of the state distributed among places grouped according to specified limits of population. The classification for each census is based upon the population of the various places as shown by the returns of that census. As a result, the figures for each census covered by the table do not relate to exactly the same urban and rural territory, respectively, as those for the other two censuses, since some territory which was rural in a certain census year may have become urban at the next census, or the reverse change may have occurred. The proportion of the population of Maine living in places of 2,500 or more increased from 33.5 per cent in 1900 to 35.3 per cent in 1910 and to 39 per cent in 1920.
